Community Development through Brownfields Revitalization

Wednesday, November 5 - Thursday, November 6, 2008

Hotel Fort Des Moines * 1000 Walnut Street * Des Moines, Iowa 50309

Economic Development through Brownfields Revitalization

Do you have an abandoned grain elevator, manufacturing plant or gas station in your community? If so, the site is potentially contaminated with hazardous substances and is eligible for federal or state brownfields funding. Brownfields redevelopment can help create local jobs and spur downtown revitalization projects by attracting private investment. Learn how to identify brownfields, finance cleanup activities and turn contaminated property into a source of economic vitality for your community.

Who Should Attend the Workshop:

Community developers, regional planners, local/county governments, economic developers, non-profits, environmental consultants and private firms involved in community revitalization projects or cleanup of contaminated properties.

Tentative Topics to be Covered:

- The nuts and bolts of brownfields redevelopment
- How to fund your brownfields project (state and federal brownfields programs)
- Streamlining the brownfields process – organization, techniques and tools
- Green building and smart growth – the next generation of brownfields redevelopment
- Creative brownfields practices and success stories

Registration Fee (includes continental breakfast and lunch):

$50.00 - Private Entity

$30.00 - Local Government/Public Servant
